

CHIEF EDITOR'S REMARKS

Vladimir V. Shapovalov

MGIMO University

Dear readers of the International Business Journal!

Changing international business processes encourage companies to gradually adapt to the modern environment. To ensure a stable competitive position on the market, the development strategy of any successful company must include innovative management methods and technologies. In this issue, we will look into the features of various companies' activity amid the transformation of the business climate.

The article by N.Orlova, Advisor to the Rector, will elaborate on the peculiarities of the project approach in the company management system.

Professor and Chief Scholar at the Center for Iberian Studies at the Institute of Latin America of the Russian Academy of Sciences P.Yakovlev, will talk about the impact of the commodities and raw materials of Latin American states on the development of international business.

The article by Sh.Kahkharov (Germany), Associate Professor and Managing Partner of the German-Russian Group of Companies ANG-CNT Consult, is devoted to the importance of metacompetence management from the perspective of systems theory. The article by independent expert S.Mehdi (Iran) examines the economic efficiency of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization activity amidst geopolitical tension with emphasis on Russia and Iran. And in the article by partner L.Flotttrong (Germany), business advisor of EYNUSS BUSINESS SOLUTIONS you will learn about the current state and prospects for the development of the venture investment market in Russia.

Business advisor E.Kalyuzhny will talk about the specifics of negotiation process in the modern business environment.

Experts at the Center for Applied Research at the Faculty of International Business M.Gromov and M.Chertovskikh, will look into the role of digital ethics in application of high technologies in business at the present stage.

The special guest of the issue M.Mironenko, the CEO of Gazpromtrans LLC, will share his thoughts on the importance of introducing advanced management and production solutions into business processes in an unstable external environment.

Sincerely,
Chief Editor,
Vladimir Shapovalov